

Saint Joseph Hospital Obstetrics and Gynecology Residency Medical Student Acting Internships

Acting Internships

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology welcomes medical students from accredited U.S. or Canadian medical schools who are planning to pursue OB/GYN as a career. The rotations are four weeks long. Students work closely with house staff to ensure sufficient patient contact. Students attend all OB/GYN educational conferences.

We will accept applications starting January 2 through May 1 and will alert all students of their application status before June 1. Rotations begin at the end of June/early July through the end of January.

We accept applications through the VSLO program. Please contact us directly if you have any barriers to applying through this program – in certain circumstances we may accept applications emailed to the program directly. Download the Clerkship Application on our website and email completed applications to Jennifer.Libra@imail.org.

Applicants must have passed Part 1 of the USMLE or COMLEX and must have completed a third year Obstetrics and Gynecology rotation.

For selected students with financial barriers to pursuing “away” rotations, our program offers a scholarship which can aid in reimbursing the costs of housing and transportation. We encourage applicants from low-income backgrounds, first-generation college graduates, students with additional language proficiency, and those who have demonstrated a commitment to service and advocacy for marginalized patient populations. All are welcome to apply for this scholarship by submitting a short paragraph essay (<200 words).

Preference for acting internships is given to candidates with:

- Demonstrated commitment to caring for underserved populations
- Demonstrated commitment to advocacy and leadership
- Spanish language proficiency

Rotations Offered:

- Obstetrics
- Ambulatory
